The opening event was a selling affair

The opening event was a selling affair at seven furiongs, in which eleven starters went to the post. Dalsyrian was the bost liked of the lot, closing at even money. Watterson came next and, Milt Young followed. The rest were all at long odds.

After making the running from the quarter, Watterson won handlip by two lengths. The best Dalsyrian could do was second, three lengths before Vevay. Lady Adams, late She filly, was favority in the second race. Gallatin and flary were also well liked.

Rebecca made the running to the stretch, where Golden Valley passed her and won easily by four lengths. Nettle Howell colt, a 23-to-I shot, was second, and Mary third. Lady Adams was never in the hunt.

Case To-Day.

Charles W. Brooke, chief of Dr. Meyer's counsel, declared this morning that the case for the defense would be all in to-night, and the case would go to the jury. The prosecution closed its case last night, satisfied that the charge that Dr. Henry C. F. Meyer had poisoned Ludwig Brandt, alias Baum, had been fully substantiated.

Mr. Brooke opened the day's proceedings with the usual formal motions.

He asked that the Court instruct the jury, to acquit Dr. Meyer on the ground that the indictment charged him with killing Gustave M. A. J. Baum, while the proof was that one Ludwig Brandt had died; on the further ground that the prosecution had not proved its case and also that the testimony of the ac complice. Muller, had not been sufficient ly corroborated. The motion was denied, Justice Bar rett saying that Brandt went under the name of Baum, if the witnesses be believed, and so far as this proceeding was concerned was Baum, and the matter of sufficiency of proof and corroboration was a question of fact not for the Court but for the jury to determine.

Mr. Brooke moved that the charge of from the case and manslaughter substituted, there being no proof of intent, nor of the killing having been done while the accused was engaged in the commission of another felony.

Justice Barrett said that was also matter for the jury to decide, and deni matter for the jury to decide, and demed the motion.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, tall, slender, good-looking, conscientious and earnest, thereupon arose and addressed the jury, outlining the plan of the defense.

Without introduction, Mr. Chanler plunged into the facts. He said:

"Gentlemen, Mr. McIntyre told you in also opening address that he should prove to your satisfaction the premeditation and deliberation of this detendant and the commission of a foul murder, without reference to any conspiracy to defroud the insurance companies. Has he done it?

Mr. Chanler said there used to be ime when the prosecuting officer er Mr. Chanler said there used to be a time when the prosecuting officer entered a murder trial with regret and prayed that the accused might be able to show his innocence. Then he pitched into District-Attorney Nicoli over the head of Mr. McIntyre.
